Class A shareholders' right to vote at general meetings

CMI has previously announced that Trojan Equity Ltd, an A Class Shareholder, had taken action in the Queensland Supreme Court to have the right to vote its shareholding at the 2008 AGM on the basis that there were arrears of dividends owing to the A Class shareholders.

The Supreme Court today refused the application by Trojan Equity and held that no dividends were in arrears and that there was no voting entitlement by A Class shareholders at the 2008 general meeting of shareholders of CMI.

Costs in the action were awarded against Trojan Equity and in favour of CMI.

The rulings made at the 2008 AGM of CMI in relation to voting rights therefore stand.

Yours Faithfully
